KEEP THIS ON THE FRIDGE

Safe & Skip Foods for Dogs

A quick guide to common kitchen foods. “Safe” means safe in small amounts, prepared as noted.

extra dog years

SAFE in small amounts

Apples — no seeds, core or stem

Bananas — an occasional treat; high in sugar

Blueberries — halve for very small dogs

Carrots — raw or cooked, in bite-size pieces

Green beans — plain; no butter or garlic

Peas — fresh or frozen; skip salty canned

Pumpkin — 100% pure, never pie mix

Strawberries — cut small; skip canned or in syrup

Watermelon — no seeds or rind

Eggs — fully cooked

Salmon & fish — plain, fully cooked, deboned

Turkey — no skin, fat or bones

Plain yogurt — no added sugar or xylitol

Peanut butter — xylitol-free; small portions

Popcorn — air-popped, unsalted, unbuttered

SKIP keep out of reach

Chocolate — darker and baking chocolate are riskier

Coffee & tea — contain caffeine

Grapes & raisins — can cause kidney damage

Onions, garlic, leeks, chives — can damage red blood cells

Xylitol — in sugar-free gum and candy, some peanut butters

Macadamia nuts — can cause weakness and tremors

Cherries — pits, stems and leaves contain cyanide

Avocado skin & pit — contain persin; pit can cause a blockage

Alcohol — can cause vomiting and loss of coordination

Raw yeast dough — can expand in the stomach

Cooked bones — can injure or block the gut

Salty snacks — too much salt can be harmful

Raw meat & eggs — can carry bacteria like Salmonella

IF YOUR DOG EATS SOMETHING ON THE SKIP LIST

Note what and how much, then call your vet or ASPCA Poison Control (open 24/7; a fee may apply).

(888) 426-4435

Add one new food at a time in small amounts, and keep treats to no more than 10% of daily calories. Check with your vet if your dog has a health condition or special diet. For general education only; not a substitute for veterinary care.

Sources: American Kennel Club, “Fruits and Vegetables Dogs Can or Can't Eat,” “Which Human Foods Can Dogs Eat and Which Are Dangerous?,” “Can Dogs Eat Cherries?,” “Can Dogs Eat Avocado?” and “How Many Treats Can a Dog Have Per Day?” · ASPCA, “People Foods to Avoid Feeding Your Pets” and “ASPCA Poison Control.” · @extradogyears